This business law firm understands the City – how its institutions, businesses, entrepreneurs and senior executives work and how it is changing. Fox Williams has specialist knowledge of, and exceptional experience in, both financial services and technology. The firm's financial services team has first-hand experience of enforcing regulation from within the financial services regulator - the FSA - and, in addition to delivering regulatory advice, also guides financial services firms through merger & acquisition, capital raising and other corporate transactions. Its specialist tech team works with endlessly innovative clients and sees its role as matching that innovation in its own way – by developing new legal strategies that manage risk and which protect and unlock their clients' often considerable value.

The CEO Agenda is a collaboration between businesses whose focus is the technology sector. Together we develop opportunities for start-up and high-growth technology businesses to engage with global brands and with one another. Our first major initiative in 2012 sold out overnight, and in January this year our FinTech event, hosted by Bloomberg, attracted 360 CEO level guests, as well as a panel featuring leaders from Google, O2Money, Barclaycard and Monitise.
